

USE OF AUTHORITY STANDARD GS007

AUTHORITY

California Penal Code 13601(a)(1): The CPOST shall develop, approve, and monitor standards for the selection and training of state correctional peace officer apprentices.

BACKGROUND

The primary mission of Correctional Peace Officers is to provide public safety through safe and secure incarceration of offenders, effective parole supervision, and rehabilitative strategies to successfully reintegrate offenders into our communities.

Inherent to this authority of public protection, either by means of maintaining security within an institution or active supervision of offenders in society, a Correctional Peace Officer must stay vigilant of potential or developing situations, taking steps to prevent or resolve such conflicts with minimal reliance on the use of force. This is accomplished by being constantly aware of their surroundings, exercising safe practices, applying discretion and ethical decision making in all courses of action, and communicating effectively with persons of all backgrounds. Some situations will require the use of force to maintain or restore order and security or for the protection of themselves or others. This force must be used in compliance with the laws and policies governing the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR). Each Correctional Peace Officer must have the knowledge of how and when to use force, as well as the skill and ability to effectively utilize force. Only a well-trained Correctional Peace Officer can perform at this level.

STANDARD

All Correctional Peace Officers shall be trained and knowledgeable in CDCR Policy and Procedure as it relates to their authority level in performing their duties. They must be trained and knowledgeable in effective communication while carrying themselves professionally. They must have the knowledge, skills and abilities to recognize developing situations and apply communication and de-escalation techniques in resolving those matters without force when possible. They must have the knowledge, skills and abilities to use force, within their authority, should the situation call for it.

COMPONENTS OF STANDARD

Correctional Peace Officers shall be trained in:

- Ethical decision making
- Situational awareness
- Effective communication and de-escalation techniques
- The Knowledge, Skills and Abilities of the use of force available to their job classification in the performance of their duties.
- Self-defense and the defense of others
